Photographer Murad Osmann creates spectacular images of his fiancée Natalia Zakharova taking the lead and the pair have even ended up in Hollywood

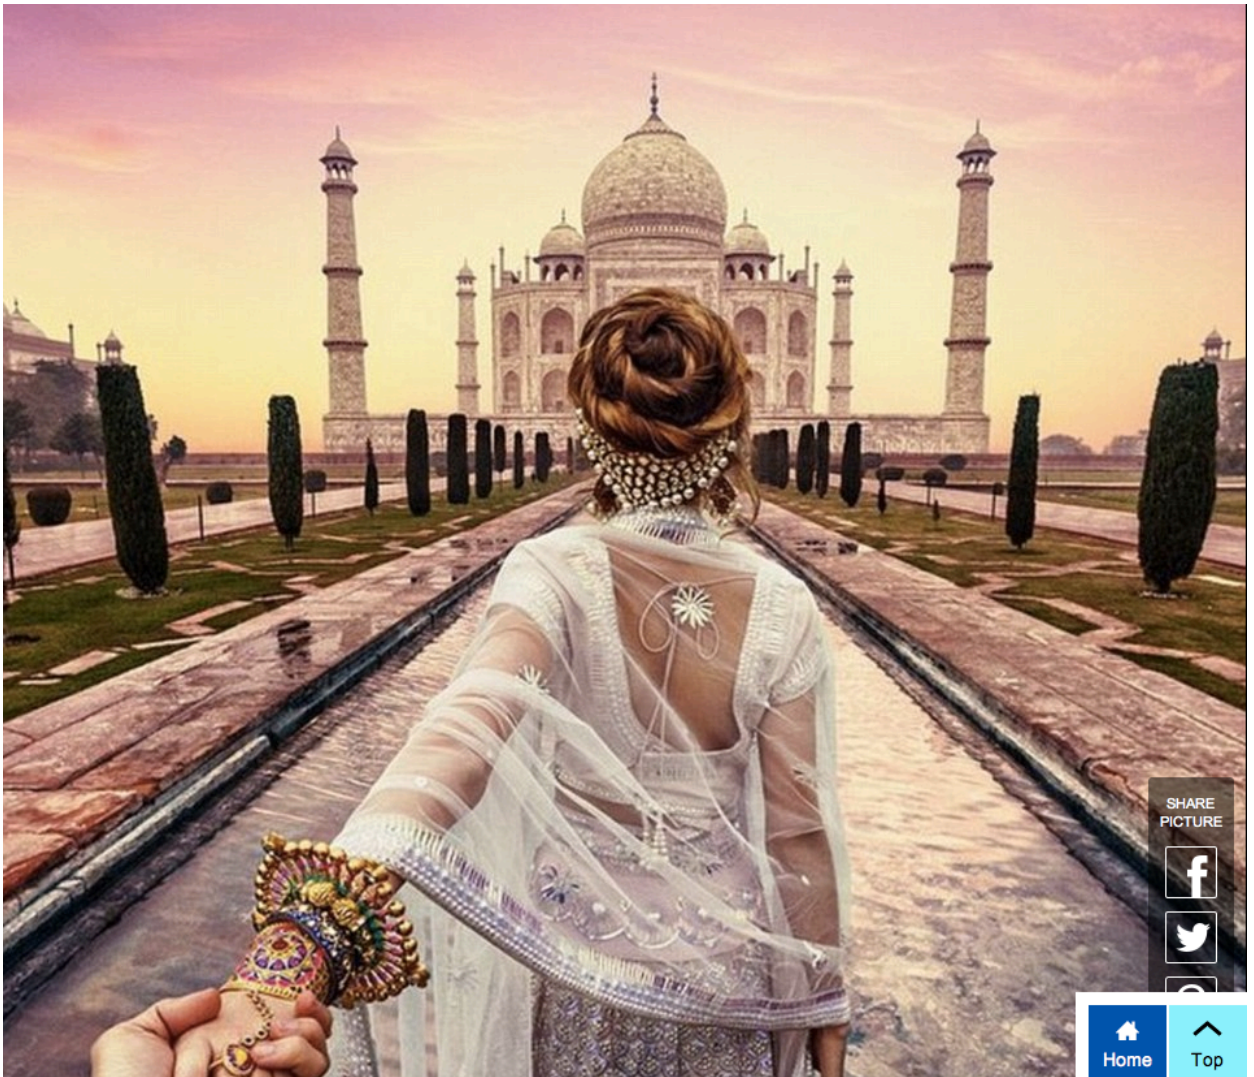

The spectacular shot, showing Natalia in a white and gold evening gown with the Hollywood sign in the background, was captioned cheekily by Murad: 'Who needs doors on a helicopter :)'

The pair snapped the daring shot, leaning slightly out of the helicopter, while on a special tour of Los Angeles.

It's not the only glamorous picture to be added to the couple's ever-growing collection of photographs.

The duo have recreated their famous pose in a series of spellbinding colourful images in India, causing our levels of wanderlust to overflow.

The mesmerising images captured in Delhi, Varanasi, Jaipur and Agra are the latest additions in the #followmeto project on Instagram, which has seen the pair travel to exotic and famous locations such as Moscow, Hong Kong, Singapore, Bali and even on the helipad at the Burj Al Arab in Dubai, an gain 2.3million followers.

Osmann wrote on Instagram: 'It is hard to explain the emotions that you feel the first time you see the Taj Mahal through the entrance doors. It truly is one of the world's best wonders.'

A heart of gold: Zakharova leads the way in Udaipur. Osmann wrote: 'After visiting New Delhi, Varanasi, Agra and Jaipur, we have decided that we want to rest at the final destination and Udaipur was the best choice. Of course we didn't sit still and took a photo at this amazing palace in the middle of the lake'

The Moscow based couple have been travelling around the world for five years and their latest trip to India impressively outshines previous pictures to provide even more opulent and colourful images.

The trip was in honour of recreating the couple's magic for Harper's Bazaar Bride India with Zakharova wearing bridal outfits while leading Murad through India.

Backdrops featured include the picturesque Taj Mahal, Jaipur Ajmer Fort, Hawa Mahal, Jama Masjid and Chand Baori, and Natalia is dressed in traditional Indian outfits and jewellery, perfectly complimenting the surroundings.
